There's a better way to remove ear wax

Thousands of physicians have discovered that the best time to remove bothersome ear wax is after the patient has used DEBROX® Drops at home. Just a few days of b.i.d. home administration can result in an easier office procedure for you and your patient.[1,2] In many cases, the use of DEBROX alone is sufficient to unblock the canal.

DEBROX can do this because of its unique chemomechanical action which penetrates wax, softens and fragments it, then solubilizes the necrotic debris comprising the core. In addition, it is available without prescription and has an unprecedented safety record — not a single verified adverse reaction in millions of patient uses.

Try DEBROX on your next ear wax patient and see how easy ear wax removal can be for both of you. You'll appreciate the saving in valuable office time and your patient will enjoy the ease with which you performed the procedure.
